ALH 140: Biomedical Ethics

Syllabus

Lecture Hours/Credits: 3/3

Catalog Description

Prerequisite: ENG 101 – English Composition I or Enhanced English Composition I

The range of issues that define biomedical ethics intersects with issues of race and gender equality, as well as policies affecting the world's most vulnerable populations. This multidisciplinary course blends the arts of philosophy, theology, history and law to examine biomedical issues in personal, social and cultural contexts. Students will be introduced to classic and contemporary methods and theories and use those concepts to analyze a variety of current biomedical and health related issues and apply moral reasoning to formulate an ethical response. This course serves as a framework to assist professionals in resolving legal and ethical questions in the field of medicine and research.

Textbook and Course Materials

It is the responsibility of the student to confirm with the bookstore and/or their instructor the textbook, handbook, and any other materials required for their specific course and section.
