MRI
Technologist Program

Rowan College South Jersey- Cumberland Workforce Development

MRI Technologist

MRI Technologists operate magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) scanners. MRI scanners use strong magnetic fields and radio frequencies to create 3D images of a patient's body tissues, which physicians then use as an aid to diagnose. MRI Technologists' responsibilities include interpreting physicians' instructions, explaining MRI procedures to patients, selecting imaging parameters and software options to help adjust a MRI machine, viewing images obtained during an imaging session and keeping records of the results. They also involve themselves with maneuvering examination equipment, preparing patients for medical procedures, moving patients onto examination tables from wheelchairs or stretchers and positioning them for imaging.

Potential students are required to complete an application for entry into this program and a limited number of students will be selected. In addition to the application, eligible applicants must provide: proof of current ARRT certification, proof of current immunizations, documentation of a recent 10-panel drug screen and must pass a background check.

This program is a blend of classroom instruction (one night a week/3 hours) and clinical experience. Students will be required to complete a minimum of 16 hours per week in a clinical site. Clinical sites will be assigned on a first-come-first-served basis: those handing in completed applications and all required documentation will be given the first choice of clinical assignment.

The course fees include: classroom instruction, clinical placement, management and approval of documented scans, student malpractice insurance, radiation badges, electronic text and background check.

Rowan College of South Jersey admits students without regard for race, color, creed, sex, age, religion, national/ethnic origin, sexual orientation, disability, pregnancy or military status.
